

ABSTRACT

An extended release pharmaceutical formulation is disclosed. A selected pharmaceutical agent is encased within polymeric film layers providing for gradual release of the pharmaceutical active for over 12 and even 24 hours in the gastrointestinal tract and the blood plasma.